This advanced course explores major themes in the recent historiography on France. We will focus on three or four topics, such as revolution and social protest; gender and war; media and politics, and the cultural and political configuration of racial, ethnic, and religious difference. The instructor will consult with students likely to take the course about possible topics before finalizing the syllabus.