Sir James Galway, Virtuoso Flautist

Born in Belfast, Sir James Galway is widely regarded as the supreme interpreter of classical flute repertoire. A consummate entertainer, whose appeal has crossed all musical boundaries, he is one of the most recorded classical artists performing today. Awarded the OBE in 1979, and subsequently a Knighthood for Services to Music in 2001, Sir James has been the recipient of many honors and awards for his musical accomplishments – as well as numerous gold and platinum recordings. As an instructor and humanitarian, he has been a tireless promoter of the arts. Most recently, Sir James has been a supporter of the Music Generation project – a national music education program in Ireland to give young people access to music tuition.
