

GLUCKSMAN IRELAND HOUSE NEW YORK UNIVERSITY

Glucksman Ireland House NYU fosters excellence in the study of Ireland, Irish America, and the global Irish diaspora at one of the world's finest universities.

Located in the heart of Greenwich Village, Glucksman Ireland House is home to the Irish and Irish-American Studies program at New York University. In addition to undergraduate and graduate academic programs, Glucksman Ireland House NYU offers members of the public the opportunity to select among an array of cultural events featuring leading writers, historians, musicians, filmmakers, and political figures — events that foster understanding of Irish and Irish-American experiences in relationship to the world at large.

We invite you to become a Member of Gluckman Ireland House.

In joining, you play a vital role in supporting our students, our faculty, and our public programming.
