Pathways through your Major or Minor

A guide to how courses at NYU Madrid fit with your major or minor

How to use this form: below is a list of courses taught at NYU Madrid. Each course lists the majors and minors for which the course may be taken, either to satisfy requirement, or as an elective. Please make sure to follow the key to majors and minors when you are looking for courses that count toward your concentration, as all majors and minors have different requisites and accepted electives.

Not all classes listed below are offered every term. Look for the list of current courses and descriptions at: <http://www.nyu.edu/madrid.html>

Rules on Advanced Language Electives and Your Major or Minor:

Advanced Language Electives include courses in CONVERSATION, CREATIVE WRITING, or TECHNIQUES of TRANSLATION. Please note that there are different names for these courses in Washington Square and abroad. The information below explains how advanced language electives fit your major or minor.

• SPAN majors and minors

Spanish majors may take up to two advanced language electives toward the major (whether taken in Washington Square or abroad). Minors may take one advanced language elective toward the minor.

Advanced Language Electives ARE NOT required for the major or minor, but students may take them as described above to satisfy electives.

• ROML and SPLN majors

ROML and SPLN majors may take ONE advanced language elective toward the major (whether taken in Washington Square or abroad). Advanced Language Electives ARE NOT required for these two majors, but students may take ONE advanced language elective as one of their five courses required for the Spanish portion of their major.

• LAMS and IBST majors and minors

No advanced language electives may be used to satisfy the major or minor.

Rules on Courses Taken in English for your Major or Minor:

Some of our majors and minors allow you to use courses taught in English toward your major or minor. Please review these rules while working on your course schedule.

- SPAN majors and minors

Spanish majors may take up to two courses in English with writing in Spanish toward the major (whether taken in Washington Square or abroad). Minors may take one course in English with writing in Spanish toward their minor. Please note that you can only use this option if you have taken SPAN-UA 200 before or are taking SPAN-UA 9200 concurrently.

- ROML and SPLN majors

ROML and SPLN majors may NOT take any courses in English to fulfill their requirements for their major.

- LAMS and IBST majors and minors

LAMS and IBST majors and minors may take as many courses in English as desired, provided that they fulfill the necessary language requirement for their major or minor (in Spanish, the requirement is successful completion of SPAN-UA 100, SPAN-UA 111, SPAN-UA 9100, or their equivalent).

Internships and Experiential Learning

Majors may count 4 credits of an internship course toward their major

Students in the NYU Madrid Academic Internship Program learn about Spanish culture and professional life through internship placements in a wide range of industries. This for-credit program includes two components: (1) Guaranteed (minimum 16hr/week) internship placement; and (2) Participation in the Internship Seminar and Fieldwork course. In order to enroll in this program, students must participate in a competitive application process. Successful applicants are typically adaptable, flexible, goal-oriented, and open-minded. Students are required to have Spanish language proficiency of at least Intermediate Spanish II in key competencies (listening, reading, writing and speaking). Without this minimum proficiency, students are not eligible to participate in the internship program.
